G. & J. Tires Are First Class.

"The 'G. & J.'—We have been riding a pair of Gormully & Jeffrey tires, fitted to the 'G. & J.' wood rim, and can speak of them in no other manner than that in which we have always done. THEY ARE BOTH FIRST-CLASS. A somewhat small, nevertheless important, advantage is the strong valve with which they are fitted, and which enables one to screw the pump directly on, without the employment of the usual ludia rubber nozzle. Instead of making one's fingers sore, by holding the pump in position, it is only necessary to catch hold of the wheel with one hand and pump away with the other, the effort required being comparatively nothing."

The Cycle Manufacturer and Dealer's Review, Fleet st., London, Empland, September 28, 1805. Fitted to all RAMBLENS, and can be supplied on any make bicycle if you insist on it. Samples of the '96 & J. tires can now be seen at 1325 14th st. n.w. 10-28d GORMULLY & JEFFERY MFG. CO.

A GOLDEN HOUR.

Enjoyable Entertainment Given a Calvary Baptist Sunday School. Calvary Baptist Sunday school house was he scene last evening of a pleasant, interesting and profitable gathering of the officers and teachers of the school and their nvited guests, to the number of about 200, to participate in what was termed "A Golden Hour With Calvary Sunday School." The first half hour was spent in pleasant social intercourse, in which many new acquaintances were formed and many old ones renewed and strengthened. Refresh-ments were then served by a committee composed of a dozen or so of the well-known young ladies of the school, the guests being seated four each at tables ar-ranged in the spacious parlors, and beauti-fully decorated with flowers and vines apfully decorated with nowers and vines ap-propriate to the occasion, while the par-lors and Sunday school room were orna-mented with a profusion of palms and other plants. Everything about the tables, including the eatables as well as the decora-

Evangelist Potter Delivers an Eloquent | Police Court Cases and the Evidence To-Sermon on the Great Salvation.

Potter, the Chicage business man an Allat, assisted by his co-worker, Proport Miller, frew another large crowd to many of the control of the cont

ding a farewell until He should have trodden the wine press alone. He steps out from the portals of heaven, out through the gates of pearl, and comes into our since and sorrowing world to take up His abode in a manger that He might get be neath the sorrowing, the sighing, the tears and the dying of our lost race and roll back the lowering clouds which sin had gathered, that He might let into man"s sad heart the light and hope of heaven. Was ever love like this?"

Mr. Potter then declared that it was a great salvation because of the great suffering which Christ endured as our substitute for sin. "We shall never know," necontinued, "the depths of the sorrow which Christ bore for us. There were two sides to the Christ life—the human on the other. We might understand somewhat of the suffering of Christ's human nature had not His divine nature been interlocked and interwoven with it to bear it up that it might endure greater suffering."

Several other considerations were then presented by the evangelist, and a number of incidents in his experience were related for the purpose of emphasizing the sad fon the purpose of neglect of the salvation of-

At the close of the address an appeal was made by the speaker to those present who were unsaved to come forward for prayer. A large number responded to the invitation, and during the course of the evening professed saving faith in Christ. The meeting was regarded as the best of the series thus far, and the Christian people from the various churches of the city who are attending predict that next week will be a time of great victory. It is anticipated that an overflow meeting will be necessary Sunday, in which case Mr. Miller will assume charge of it in the lecture room.

Death of Col. Hampton B. Denman.

Col. Hampton B. Denman died at his residence, 1623 16th street, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, after a brief illness. Col. Denman was born in Lancaster, Ohio, in 1830, his mother being a sister of Mrs. Thomas Ewing. At the age of eighteen he went to California, by way of Mexico, being accompanied by his cousin, Hugh Ewing. Whilst there they both were volunteer members of the party which, under the command of Capt, Rucker (now the venerable general), carried relief across the mountains to the starving immigrants. He left California in 1855, and settled in Leavenworth, Kan.; was the first mayor of that city and a member of the first Kansas legislature. He was subsequently engaged in large business and mining ventures in the territory that was then the great west, and was the Fiend and companion of Col. Boone, Carson, St. Vrain and other noted ploneers, as well as of many of the old officers of the army. He was for some years sup-Col. Denman was born in Lancaster, of the army. He was for some years sup-erintendent of Indian affairs for the northerintendent of Indian affairs for the north-western district, and in the autumn of 1866 was married to Miss Mary Young, daughter of George Washington Young of Giesboro', who, with one son, survives him. He came to Washington to reside in 1869, and has since made this his home; his health having been seriously impaired by the exposure of his early life of his early life.

Col. Denman was a man of wide reading and of varied experience, and was intimate for many years with prominent men all over the country, particularly so with his cousin and friend, the late James G. Blaine. He was a courteous gentleman of the old school, a devoted husband and father, and a stample friend, and all his death will be a a staunch friend, and his death will be a distinct personal loss to his many friends throughout the country.

The funeral will take place Monday morning, at 10 o'clock, from his late residence.

Although of water flows down its channel. Although every drop of water in the river and Wills creek passes through the in-take lock of the canal basin, there is not sufficient depth of water to float an empty boat through the basin. Yesterday evening several boats of the Consolidated Coal Company's line cleared for Georgetown with about one-third of their carrying capacity, but they had not gone half a mile before they literally stuck in the mud, and, although the drivers doubled their teams on the foremost boat in the convoy, they could not move it. Hence, navigation on the canal is closed until the water rises.
